EAST OF THE ROCKIES.

Heavy Storms in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

CONDITION OF MRS. PARNELL.

Interesting Developments in the Celebrated Cronin Murder Trial at Chicago.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.)

EASTERN STORMS.

Streams in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania Booming.

New York, November 20th.—Heavy rains have caused many streams in New York and New Jersey to overflow their banks, and a number of towns have sustained considerable damage from the floods. Traffic on the Erie Railroad has been stopped by washouts near Elmira. The lower portions of that city are inundated, and the Northern Central Railroad is also blocked by washouts and landslides.

Several bridges have been carried away around Elmira and Hornellsville. The Lehigh Valley trains are delayed. Canals are partially inundated by a rise in the Genesee river.

Williamsport (Pa.), November 20th.—The streams in this vicinity are greatly swollen and many bridges on the Northern Central Railroad are in danger. Travel is suspended on that route. The flood is as great as that of last June. Several bridges have been carried away, and Lock Haven and Clearfield are reported to be badly flooded.

Elmira (N. Y.), November 20th.—The floods in this section are very serious. There has been great damage to property, but no loss of life.

Long Branch (N. J.), November 20th.—At high tide this morning the surf cut smother through near several of the hotels at Brighton, where the big cut was last winter. The bluff was also damaged in several places between Ocean pier and the Howard Hotel.

Oran (N. Y.), November 20th.—Heavy and incessant rain the past two days caused a great rise in the water level of the river. The river is rising at the rate of ten inches per hour, and it is continuing property along the low lands in great danger.

JABBED IN THE EYE.

Major Stewart Believes That He Killed a Man.

New York, November 20th.—The mystery that surrounded the case of Martin Flynn, who died in a hospital a few days ago from wounds received a couple of months ago, about 4 years ago, when he was jabbed into his eye, the ferule of which was jabbed into his eye, is believed to have been cleared up. Major Stewart, a former Confederate soldier, whose name was in the list of the Confederate soldiers' home at Austin, Tex., last winter, gave his wife a blow on the forehead with a pistol, and she was killed. Stewart was not aware that he was jabbed into the eye of a man unknown to him. On the evening of October 28th he was walking down Broadway with his wife. When near the corner of Third Street a man, who was grasped by Stewart's arm and made some remark. Major Stewart says he raised his fist and struck the man on the forehead, and the man fell. Stewart was waiting for a policeman, and when he appeared, and his wife being greatly agitated they went back home. Stewart was not aware that he had jabbed the man in the face with his umbrella, but after considering the case of Flynn he said that he believed the man he had jabbed to be the man he (Stewart) had beaten to resent the insult.

DISAPPOINTMENT OF THE MAJOR. New York, November 20th.—Another story of Flynn has turned up. Siegfried H. May, a wholesale liquor dealer, surrendered to the police yesterday, and said that he was the man who stabbed Martin Flynn in the eye on upper Broadway the latter part of October, inflicting a fatal wound. Flynn asserted that he was jabbed in the eye with the ferule of a policeman, but he believed the man he (Stewart) had beaten to resent the insult.

CRONIN CASE. The Defense Still Trying to Prove an Alibi.

Chicago, November 20th.—Testimony to prove an alibi for the defendant in the Cronin case was resumed this morning. Mrs. Thomas Whalen, who keeps house for O'Sullivan, and her sister, Kate McKeown, who was present at the trial, testified that they were awake till 11 o'clock in the morning, and he was still there. Mrs. Whalen said she was present when Clancy, the New York Herald reporter, wanted to go to see Cronin's wife. O'Sullivan refused because he didn't know Clancy, and he would go if a policeman asked him.

Matt Borah, saloon-keeper, testified that Martin Burke was in his saloon from 10 o'clock on the evening of May 4th. In cross-examination, the fact was developed that witness was a member of Camp Cronin, and that he had been supplying Burke's meals to him, and that he had been supplying him with food for the purpose of looking around. He denied ever having seen Cronin since that time, and denied that he ever called Cronin a spy or any other opprobrious epithet. He admitted that he was the Treasurer of the Prisoners' Defense Fund and had been active in raising money.

W. F. Coughlin, a saloon-keeper, corroborated the testimony of Matt Borah, and testified that he was in the latter's saloon that night.

LONGNECKER AS A WITNESS. At the afternoon session, John O'Malley, clerk of the State's Attorney, called corroborated Danahy's evidence as to Burke.

James Lyman, a city contractor and a member of Camp 20, told of the meeting of February 8th, when a committee was appointed to inquire of the Court as to the report of the Buffalo Trial Commission that had been prematurely made public in Cronin's case. The witness said after the resolution was adopted the matter was considered and referred to District Officer Spellman, of Peoria.

Ex-Congressman John F. Finney said he was a member of Camp 20. He had never heard of an "inner circle" in it. Several other witnesses were examined with regard to the inner circle, but none of them knew anything about it.

State's Attorney Longnecker was then called as a witness on behalf of defendant Burke. He objected, but the brief called upon the Court ordered the examination to proceed. In reply to questions, Longnecker testified that he had heard Burke testify before the Coroner's jury and had subsequently called Burke to be brought before the Grand Jury.

When the State's Attorney asked him to be examined before the Grand Jury, he had examined Burke before the Grand Jury. Mr. Mills, of counsel for the State, objected, but the State's Attorney insisted that he was entitled to examine Burke, and that he was entitled to examine Burke, and that he was entitled to examine Burke.

was put on the stand for examination. The examination developed that he was the State's Attorney of correspondence between defendant and Spellman, and in pursuance of that correspondence he had written to Spellman. Up to the time of receiving the information the State's Attorney did not know that Beggs had written any letters to Spellman.

After then asked if the testimony of Beggs before the Grand Jury was not the first information the State's Attorney had that there had been such correspondence. Judge Longnecker said that he had been putting words in his mouth, and he would not answer it; but he finally said that Beggs said that he had written letters to Spellman, and he would explain the whole thing, or something to that effect; letters written to Spellman and replies to the secret communication arranged for by the State's Attorney further admitted, in reply to a question, that Beggs wanted him to obtain those letters.

Chief of Police Hubbs was called and admitted that after Beggs' arrest they had had a conversation regarding the Spellman correspondence, and that Beggs had directed him where in his (Beggs) desk to find letters which he wished taken to Judge Longnecker.

The Court then adjourned until tomorrow.

HE MUST STAY. A convicted burglar's ineffectual petition for a new trial.

George Rogers was sentenced in the Butte county Superior Court in November, 1888, to twelve years' imprisonment in the Folsom State Prison for burglary. He appealed to the Supreme Court for a new trial, and that tribunal yesterday handed down the following decision in the case, which was filed in the office of Deputy Supreme Court Clerk Williams:

The People (respondent) vs. Rogers, appellant.—Information and conviction of Rogers for burglary. The appeal is from the judgment of the trial court, which sentenced Rogers to twelve years' imprisonment in the Folsom State Prison for burglary. The first point made by appellant is that the information failed to state facts constituting the offense. The court held that the information was sufficient.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The report of the committee on Transportation was further discussed and adopted.

The report of the committee on Education recommended that the Granges work in doing what they preach—to resolve less and plan and execute more.

On motion of Hayes of Oregon, the resolutions on the subject of non-taxable bonds was referred back to the Grange for action.

Mrs. Joe Bailey of Mississippi, spoke of the late lamented Master of the National Grange, Zut, Darden, in honor of the effort to erect a suitable monument to his memory at Fayette, Miss. Her remarks were listened to with much interest, and a liberal contribution secured from the members present.

The following report was made by Worthy Master Z. W. Davis, of the California State Grange:

Worthy Master and Officers of National Grange: Though California is a long way from the so-called commercial and financial centers of the United States, the members of the Order of the Patrons of Husbandry have not failed to keep step to the music of the Order. California's Patrons are determined not to be out of line nor to lose position in the great movement for the betterment of the human race.

Our desire is to be in the front ranks. Our members are not only well equipped, but are well equipped with the tools of the trade. We are well equipped with the tools of the trade. We are well equipped with the tools of the trade.

It is the purpose to have every Grange in good standing in this jurisdiction officially visited during the coming spring and summer. The State shall be canvassed from end to end, and new Granges organized and old ones revived.

The Order of Patrons of Husbandry in California has never had any aid from the National Grange, and now that the officers and members of this body are here, we are here for you. While we are not in distress we need help. Give us the help we need.

Don Gonzales' Corn-Husk Band Will Land Him in Jail.

In the Police Court yesterday, Don Gonzales was found guilty of petty larceny. It appears that he had attempted to deliver a female tenant, carpenter a hundred pounds of nice, select corn-husks, and on the delivery of the first lot, consisting of two bundles, she advanced him the sum of eight dollars. She had not been able to secure the return of her money, on finding that the husks were not up to the sample in quality, nor the farmer's price.

The latter attorney, Frank Estabrook, had managed to have the case continued, and on yesterday moved for the dismissal of the charge, saying the case would be compromised.

Judge Buckley denied the motion and required that the case take the usual course, the result being that Gonzales was committed.

George Jones was convicted of malicious mischief, and will be sentenced to-day.

A nuisance of the name of Byron was ordered sent to jail for ten days for oversteering his capacity for holding liquor.

The charge of vagrancy against Charles Burns was not sustained, and he was allowed to resume his ways of industry.

Two other cases, John Smith and James Russell, were continued, each getting seven days for vagrancy.

John Sagner was sent up for ten days for petty larceny.

JOHN PEASELEY.

Death of Another of the Pioneer Settlers of Sacramento.

There died on a farm near the old Tirol place, east of this city, on Saturday last, one of the earliest citizens of Sacramento, John Peaseley. For several years past his health had been poor, and though his death was looked for at almost any time, he passed away without the knowledge of his family, having been found dead in his bed. Deceased was in his eightieth year, and was a native of New Hampshire. He came to California in 1845, and made his home in this city in 1852.

For some years he was proprietor of the "Hill" hotel, the leading object to be visited by the California State Prison and the substantial dam across the American river near by. Owing to the heavy rains the contemplated lunch and visit to the new colony of Grangeville, in the morning, will be postponed.

On Friday at 8 a. m. the train will start promptly for Marysville, arriving about 10 a. m. Carriages have been provided for taking those who wish to visit Yuba City and farming districts adjacent in Sutter county. Returning, a large reception band will be given at the agricultural pavilion at Marysville.

As early in the afternoon as practicable the party will go north and rest over night at Chico.

Saturday morning a visit will be made to the State Normal School and Pioneer General John Bidwell's celebrated ranch, or orchard and fruit-preserving establishment. Again moving northward a hasty view will be taken of the Stanford vineyard and winery, donated by Stanford University, and to the Stanford Jr. University fund.

Going north again to the junction near Tehama, the train will visit the vineyard and wood southward through Colusa county to Woodland, in Yolo county.

Our guests will stay over night in the hotel, and will be met by the most hospitable rural town. Sunday morning all will have the opportunity of attending its village churches and viewing its rural homes and suburbs.

After lunch a quiet ride will be taken to the City of Gold—Santa Rosa, where citizens are making arrangements for entertaining their visiting friends from all parts of the Union.

Monday, about 10 a. m., a trip will be taken through Russian river valley, past Geyserville, Headwaters and Cloverdale, to Ukiah, in the Mendocino, where a noon lunch will be served.

Briskly the train will return, via Santa Rosa and Petaluma, to Point Tiburon, and then to Sausalito, where a noon lunch will be served.

Tuesday will be enjoyed visiting the Golden Gate Park Hotel, the University of California, and the various places of interest, according to the individual pleasure of the members.

Wednesday morning the Stanford University will be visited, and the thoroughbred horses of the Palo Alto stable, and the famous vineyard and winery of Stanford University, will be seen.

Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) Monterey and Hotel Del Monte will be visited, and the famous vineyard and winery of Stanford University, will be seen.

Friday a move will be made on to Stockton, where the famous vineyard and winery of Stanford University, will be seen.
